HOW TO SPOT THE BEST CUSTOM BOTTLED WATER

Not all custom bottled water is created equal.

Learn from the experts at The Water Depot how to distinguish high-quality custom bottled water from cheap look-alikes to ensure your customers get only the best bottled water, every time.

Cheap caps may contain BPA, a harmful chemical found in plastics, or may not line up correctly with the notches at the top of the bottle, causing spills and leaks.

Cheap bottles may contain BPA, may only come in one size, and will likely be made of thin plastic that crinkles and breaks apart when squeezed.

Cheap labels will have low-quality graphics and won't hold up to water, becoming soggy and falling apart when wet.

Cheap bottled water companies will only offer one type of water, which may also contain impurities that leads to a metallic taste.

Look for caps like The Water Depot's, which are 100% BPA-free, recyclable and made to screw on properly to prevent leaks.

Pitch bottles like The Water Depot's, which are made of strong 100% BPA-free plastic, are recyclable and come in 7 different styles, including eco-friendly rPET bottles made from recycled materials.

Choose labels like The Water Depot's, which are recyclable, waterproof and printed using top-of-the-line full-color HD equipment.

Give your customers a choice between contaminant-free purified water and natural spring water that meets all EPA standards by working with a supplier like The Water Depot.

Providing your customers with the best quality bottled water will ensure their satisfaction and bring them back for repeat orders!
